The 59.80m luxury sailing yacht GERMANIA NOVA, built in 2011, is a replica of the Dr. Max Oertz designed and Krupp built racing schooner, Germania, from 1908. She has 12 crew and can accommodate up to 10 charter guests in 5 beautiful cabins. The yacht offers both a smooth and relaxing sail and an exhilarating experience at sea. Including bowsprit, luxury charter yacht GERMANIA NOVA measures an impressive 60m in overall length and carries 1,200m² of sail area.

Under deck she is composed of two main zones (guests and crew). Crew area is all located forward, and houses 10 crew in bunk areas, and two cabins for officers and captain, a crew mess, a laundry and a galley.

Guest area is composed of 5 cabins, including a master cabin and 4 guest cabins. All cabins with ensuite bathroom. One large saloon completes guest area. A bridge area finishes off the guest area, including all necessary radio and navigation equipment.

CABINS

GERMANIA NOVA has one large owner's cabin aft with a king size double bed, walk-in wardrobe, two sofas, TV, iPod connection, writing desk and a sizable bathroom with shower and separate toilet.

The ship has four nearly identical guest cabins, each equipped with a double bed (French-sized), wardrobe, writing desk, iPod connection and a small but attractive bathroom with shower, washbasin and toilet. All cabins have individual air conditioning systems, well-equipped bookshelves and make-up mirrors.
